

Paris, 29th June 2020

Dear councillors,

Effective on 14th September 2020, the ACI Diploma New Version Exam will fully replace the ACI Diploma Exam.

As announced in December 2019, when the ACI Diploma New Version Exam was officially launched, ACI FMA has taken the decision to retire the ACI Diploma Exam (English version with the September 2017 Syllabus).

Therefore, from 14th September 2020, candidates will not be able to take the ACI Diploma Exam (English version with the September 2017 Syllabus) in our test centres around the world.

The ACI Diploma New Version Exam (English version with the December 2019 Syllabus) has already been taken in several of our test centres around the world and, from 14th September 2020, interested candidates in a higher level of qualification will have to sit for this Exam that covers five Topic Baskets: Financial Markets Environment, Foreign Exchange, Rates, FICC Derivatives and Financial Markets Applications.

The ACI Diploma New Version is an excellent internationally recognised exam designed to ensure that candidates acquire a superior theoretical and practical knowledge of the foreign exchange and money markets, their related instruments, environment and applications, and the linkages that exist between those markets and the practice of risk management.

The course of study for the ACI Diploma New Version is designed for senior foreign exchange and money market dealers, corporate and bank treasurers and senior operations staff.
